WORLD'S FOURTH LARGEST DIAMOND CHANGES HANDS

This rather unusual photograph shows Sir Ernest Oppenheimer (left), head of the Diamond Corporation, receiving from Mr. Jacobus Jonker, Sr., the Jonker Diamond, the fourth largest in the world, while Jacob Jonker, Jr., looks on at a $5,000 payment on account. This remarkable diamond was discovered recently at Kladfontein in South Africa by Mr. Jonker, an alluvial digger, who has been prospecting in that neighborhood for 18 years. The diamond weighs 720 carats, is two and a half inches in length, an inch and a half in height, and one inch in breadth. Sir Ernest Oppenheimer paid $250,000 for the flawless stone, which is considered one of the greatest finds since the discovery of the Cullinan Diamond in 1905.

WORLD'S LARGEST UNDER-WATER TUNNEL TO BE OPENED THIS YEAR

For more than eight years engineers have been constructing the Mersey Tunnel, a three-mile tube of light which runs under the River Mersey from Liverpool to various points on the other side of the river. It will be completed early the coming summer, and will be formally opened by the King and Queen in July. The tunnel has cost approximately forty million dollars to build and it is estimated that at least two million motor vehicles will pass through it every year. The picture shows the Birkenhead Junction chamber.

RE-ELECTED

Mayor W. J. Hinckley, who was recently re-elected Mayor of Waterford for the fifth consecutive term.

NEW ONTARIO JUDGE

Here is a late photograph of Mr. Justice Wright of the High Court Division of the Supreme Court of Ontario. He succeeds the late Mr. Justice Wright.

FEMALE IMPERSONATOR GIVEN REMAND

Jean (Gine) Crandall, the pseudo Chicago "heiress," who broke into the news recently as the female beneficiary to a $10,000 fortune, was posing as a man working on an Ontario farm, he is in prison at Fort William being attended by the jail physician for frozen ears. Pay claims say Crandall is a man, and he is to be subjected to further medical examination before his next appearance in court. Fingerprinters show that Crandall was convicted in Dryden, Ontario, 1932; Fort William in 1933, and in London in 1934 on vagrancy charges. The pictures are a side and front view of the female impersonator.

A TIP FOR MEN

"Why shouldn't men be different?" was the cry at the Men's Wear Exhibition in London, England, recently, and to prove it we show the latest in men's evening wear. The conventional white shirt for dress wear has been replaced by the shirt above, which is of diagonal check design with polo collar. Whether it will become popular remains to be seen.

FARM BRIEFS

(From the Family Herald and Weekly Star)

Another sign that general conditions are improving is the fact that hides are beginning to be worth something once more.

In 1930 farm taxes in Ontario were almost four times what they were in 1900, and about 2.75 what they were in 1915.

In September, 1933, 835 factories were producing butter, and 552 were producing cheese in the Province of Quebec, according to the latest official report.

Vegetable dealers in Regina find that the district did not produce enough potatoes in 1933 to supply the local trade. Carload lots are being shipped in from Manitoba.

Rams are not generally considered dangerous, but a farmer in Indiana, U.S.A., has recently died from the effects of an attack. Males of the larger breeds of sheep, even though hornless, deserve watching.

FAMOUS RAILWAY DOG RETIRES

Canadians who in their journeys through London have been in Euston Station will remember "Victor," the famous dog that used to slide up to passengers with a collecting box on his back. Victor, after collecting almost $12,000 for charity during his six and one-half years in the station, has retired. His place has been taken by "Jack," a two-year-old curly coated retriever, that hopes to carry on the good work. The picture shows Victor (left) mournfully contemplating his retirement, while Jack happily looks forward to a busy future.

AN IRISH BOMB DID THIS

ONE WAY TO GUARD A CRICKET PITCH

At first glance this picture would seem to represent the result of a riot in India, with some of the victims in the foreground. The truth of the matter is India takes her cricket so seriously that natives are sent out to guard the test pitch when important matches are to be played. This particular scene was photographed at Calcutta, where the British cricket team was due to play a representative team of India. "And as to breakfast, sir?"

HERE IS A NEW GAME FOR YOU TO TRY

Each player carries a "stick" with a net, and the game is played with a large rubber ball. Goals are scored in a similar manner to the ordinary basketball. This picture shows a fast bit of work round one of the goals by lady enthusiasts.

"And as to breakfast, sir?"
"Yes, Minkins, you can try me with a little dry toast next Wednesday week."
—The London Opinion.
